DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Anderson et al (6,104,604).

Regarding claim 16, Anderson teaches of a computer user interface device (Fig. 5, reference character 300) for use by a user for communicating information to a computer (Fig. 5, reference character 400), the user interface device comprising a first module for producing a first set of user function signals based on user input operations (Fig. 3, reference character 310); a second module directly coupable to said first module for producing a specialized set of user function signals based on user input operations (Fig. 2, reference character 200); and circuitry for coupling the first and second user function signals to the computer (Fig. 3, reference character 350).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: Claims 1, 5-7, and 10-15 are allowable since certain key features of the claimed invention are not taught or fairly suggested by the prior art. In claim 1, the circuitry for coupling both the keyboard and the specialized user function signals to the computer is "on the specialized module". The closest prior art, Anderson (see above) teaches of a keyboard module and a specialized module, however singularly or in combination fails to anticipate or render the above underlined limitations obvious.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee.

Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Response to Arguments

Applicant argues that Anderson is not prior art under 35 USC 102(b). Examiner agrees with applicant. However, Anderson is prior art under 35 USC 102(e). Examiner states that this has been an oversight and has made the correction as above. Examiner apologizes for any inconvenience this inadvertent oversight may have caused.
